Connected Lives
A model for Hertfordshire

Connected Lives

- Independence & Citizenship
- Connect & Prevent
- Connect & Enable
- Connect & Support
- Connect people, sustain relationships
- Strength & Risk Positive

Co-produced Community Model for Hertfordshire
A model for everyone in social care

- ConnectedLives principles will run through everything we do:
- Front line social care work with people and in assessments and reviews
- Commissioning and buying services
- Contract monitoring with providers
• Connecting people to people, services, technology, networks, communities, aspiration and real lives

• Help people manage their own lives
• Reignite the strength in people so they can be more independent
• Taking risks is something we all do to make life better and achieve goals, this must happen in care too
• It’s not just about connecting people to others nearby
• Look wider than your own care services

• Enable citizenship – beyond just good care
• Independence doesn’t just mean not having a service - a service may give people independence
• Cater for fluctuating needs and care should be stepped up and down
What will make this happen?

• Services, care and pathways that prevent needs from escalating
• enable people to live independent lives
• support people with great care to achieve outcomes and citizenship
• Co-production and community consultation
• Training and support providers
